

Run-Ons

-
-
- A run-on is two complete thoughts that are run together with no adequate sign given to mark the break between them.
  - Some run-ons have no punctuation at all to mark the break between the thoughts. Such run-ons are known as fused sentences.
  - In other run-ons, known as comma splice, a comma is used to connect, or “splice” together, the two complete thoughts.
  - My grades are good this semester my social life rates only a C.
  - My grades are good this semester, my social life rates only a C.

How to correct Run-Ons

---

1. Use a Period and a Capital letter to break the two complete thoughts into separate sentences.

My grades are good this semester. My social life rates only a C.

2. Use a comma plus a joining word (FANBOYS) to connect two complete thoughts.

My grades are good this semester, but my social life rates only a C.

How to correct Run-Ons

---

3. Use a semicolon to connect the two complete thoughts.

My grades are good this semester; my social life rates only a C.

4. Use a subordination

Although my grades are good this semester, my social life rates only a C.

---

Activity: page number 286, 289, 290, 292, 296